A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114 including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 4/23/2007 has been entered.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 6, 8, 10, and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Leveque 4944191. Leveque discloses a handheld device 4 having at least 3 sensors 10 on an acquisition region thereof, and a processing unit 2 and 9 receiving signals from the sensor and determining physiochemical parameters of the skin (topography, age etc). Claim 6 is rejected in that the acquisition region can be moved in front of the region to be analyzed. Claim 8 is rejected in that the system includes display on unit 2. Claims 10 and 11 are rejected in that the system classifies the skin based on the measurements and is associated with a cosmetic database.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Leveque. Claim 4 is rejected in that the examiner takes official notice that a MEMS device is well known to be used for the purposes of Leveque and hence it would have been obvious to use a MEMS sensor. Claim 9 is rejected in that given that the system of Leveque connects to an internet site, it seems clear that the system is designed to link to multiple users. Hence, it would have been obvious that there would be multiple handheld units, to accommodate multiple users.

Claims 4 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Leveque in view of Brown 6186145. Leveque links to the internet via a modem. Brown teaches that modems and wireless rf communication devices are equivalent for this purpose. Hence, it would have been obvious to modify Leveque to use an rf connection, as it is merely the substitution of one known communication form for another.

Claims 2 and 3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Claims 2 and 3 define over the art in that none of the art has the three enumerated sensors a single acquisition region of a handheld device, as claimed.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Campbell et al 6370426 shows a handheld skin characteristic sensor.
